

Survey on the topic: Joint custody/sole custody

- What does joint custody/sole custody mean in your country?

- In which cases sole custody exists?

- In which cases joint custody exists?

- When and how can I as parent let modify the existing custody?

- Which preconditions must be provided for the modification?

- Which decisions (home moving, change of school, medications, practice of sports, decisions concerning property, religion, etc.) can be made by one parent in case of shared parental custody?

➤ Is it possible for the other parent to modify a decision afterwards?

➤ Which decisions have to be made together in case of joint custody? What does that mean in practice/in everyday life?

➤ Is there an obligation to provide information to the other parent in case of sole custody? If yes, when?

➤ Which are the advantages/disadvantages for the child in case of sole custody?

➤ Which are the advantages/disadvantages for the child in case of joint custody?

➤ From which age children can be heard by the court and which significance does their statement have?

➤ Is the custody also related with duties for the parent with whom the child does not live and if yes, which are these?

➤ What are the possibilities to enforce the duties of the parent with whom the child does not live?

Thank you for your support!